1. The first part of the paper is devoted to the study of the properties of the function $f(x)$ defined by the equation

$$f(x) = \int_0^x \frac{1}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that

$$f(x) = \arctan x$$

and that the function $f(x)$ is continuous and differentiable.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem. It is shown that the problem is of great importance in the theory of differential equations.

2. In the second part, we consider the case of a linear differential equation. It is shown that the problem can be solved by the method of variation of constants.

3. In the third part, we consider the case of a nonlinear differential equation. It is shown that the problem can be solved by the method of perturbation.

4. In the fourth part, we consider the case of a system of differential equations. It is shown that the problem can be solved by the method of matrix.

5. In the fifth part, we consider the case of a partial differential equation. It is shown that the problem can be solved by the method of separation of variables.

6. In the sixth part, we consider the case of a boundary value problem. It is shown that the problem can be solved by the method of Green's function.

7. In the seventh part, we consider the case of an initial value problem. It is shown that the problem can be solved by the method of Laplace transform.

8. In the eighth part, we consider the case of a problem of stability. It is shown that the problem can be solved by the method of Lyapunov.
